By Charles

For the College of Complexes

There is both potential and precedent for the U.S.
to acquire territory through cession or subjugation

Trump's bellicose rhetoric is hot-headed bargaining. It's just tough talk.

His bluster is simply part of his favored "art of the deal" negotiating tactics.

Canadian Prime Minister Mark Carney told an emergency “national economic summit” - an assembly of business and trade union leaders - that

Trump’s threat to annex Canada is a “real thing”

He tied Trump’s push to “absorb” Canada to America’s drive to secure “critical minerals”—that is the minerals that are essential for the production of both high-value commodities, from cars to computers, and the making of the advanced weapons and weapon systems needed to wage global war.

Digital Services Tax (Amazon, Google, etc)

a 3% levy on revenue from Canadian users

Canadian Prime Minister Mark Carney said late Sunday trade talks with U.S. have resumed after Canada rescinded its plan to tax U.S. technology firms.

President Trump called it a "a direct and blatant attack
on our country."

Expansionist Policy - the original America as a country only applies to a small piece of the country. The U.S. added 37 states and 14 overseas territories through a mix of annexation, occupation and purchase.

Manifest Destiny

Throughout its history, the United States has acquired land through a combination of purchase, compromise, and conflict.

US Territorial Acquisitions

Canadian History

John Cabot was a navigator and explorer who by his voyages in 1497 and 1498 helped lay the groundwork for the later British claim to Canada

He seems to have envisaged, independently of Christopher Columbus, the possibility of reaching Asia by sailing westward

The initial landfall was either on Newfoundland or nearby Cape Breton Island, however Cabot believed that he had reached the northeast coast of Asia

The first time a King of England set foot in Canada was in 1939, on a railroad trip powered by a Royal Hudson locomotive 442 years after discovery

A Life of Complete Independence

French boys were sent to live among First Nation tribes to learn their languages in order to serve as interpreters, in the hope of persuading the natives to trade with the French

About 1,000 Canadians joined the colonial army and fought in the American Revolution

Throughout the Thirteen Colonies Loyalists could not vote, sell land, sue debtors, or work as lawyers, doctors, or schoolteachers

After the war Loyalists left their homes to settle in what remained of British North America

The Great Migration from Britain was a period of high settlement in Canada from 1815 to 1850
British subjects were “domiciled” in Canada, but all others required permission to land

The French left Canada after the 7 Years War in 1763

1867 – Canadian provinces become a Dominion, i.e., a self-governing colony of the British empire - last to join was in 1949

In the 1931 Statute of Westminster ended all legislative supremacy of the British Parliament over the dominion parliaments, and made them sovereign states sharing a common crown

Colonial status continued until 1982

Problems in the Three Prairie Provinces

The Red River Rebellion (French: Rébellion de la rivière Rouge)

Métis, whose distinct culture and language emerged after early intermarriage between First Nations women and French fur trappers

The Métis were marginalized by the increasingly English-dominated majority.

A long-term effect of these actions was the bitter alienation felt by Francophones across Canada, and their anger against the repression by their countrymen.

Problems persist with First Nations tribes

The region is one of the world's largest free trade zones, with a population of more than 510 million people and an economy of $30.997 trillion GDP – nearly 30 percent of the global economy, and the largest of any trade bloc in the world.

The two countries are already united by the Canadian National Railroad

The United States is Canada's top destination for its exports — more than three-fourths of them.

Canada is also the top country the US exports goods to.

Canadians are also opting to not purchase American-made products.

Coca Cola vs. sparkling water, sweetened with Canadian maple syrup

Canada has Already Assimilated the Main Features of the American / Western Monoculture

After WW1, and the emergence of the US as a world power, Canada came up with “Defense Scheme No. 1,” with a five-pronged plan to send troops across the border and occupy northern cities

Also after WW 1, the US feared the British might launch an invasion - due to the U.S.'s insistence that it repay war loans in full - when Canada's foreign policy was still under British control.

A US plan was prepared, calling for troops marching from Buffalo to take over Niagara Falls, disabling the Canadian power grid. The US built three “civilian airports” on the border with Canada.

Foreign Affairs

The border between Canada and the United States is the longest international border in the world, 8,891 kilometers (5,525 mi) long

The Communists in China and Russia,
North Korea may turn the cold war into a hot one, or proxy war, and provide military assistance to Canada

The Monroe Doctrine, articulated by President James Monroe in 1823, is a significant U.S. foreign policy that opposes European colonialism in the Western Hemisphere.

It asserts that any intervention by foreign powers in the political affairs of the Americas would be viewed as a hostile act against the United States.

China may intervene for the safety of Asian Canadian immigrants

Since 2000, the People's Republic of China (PRC) has been the largest source of Canadian immigrants.

On average, over 30,000+ immigrants from China have arrived annually, and reside in the greater Vancouver or Toronto areas.

Chinese people were the only ethnic group who were required to pay a tax in order to enter Canada.

The Head of the Commonwealth of Nations, King Charles III, a voluntary association of 56 sovereign states, would object but not likely intervene

US will block any UN resolutions condemning an invasion

NATO's Article 5 doesn't come into play, so it is just the U.S. versus Canada - i.e., an armed attack against one member is considered an attack against all members

Canada has just a fraction of the military force of the United States, and it has failed to meet its recruiting goals. Its total strength between active duty and reserve sits at only around 100,000 personnel. The US has over one million troops.

The U.S. would be unstoppable in rolling into Canada's cities, which could likely be taken without much damage.

Most of our northern neighbor's population centers, with the exception of Calgary, Charlottetown, Edmonton, Halifax, and St. Johns are within 80 miles of the U.S. border.

Canada has 74 main battle tanks

US has 9,100 of them

RCAF has 400 very outdated aircraft

US has over 5,000 top of the line aircraft

Naval forces 67 ships
vs. 471 ships

The U.S. could take a cue from Germany's invasion of the Netherlands in 1940: surrender or see your cities bombed to rubble. The U.S. Navy could quickly blockade any ports, and the U.S. Air Force would certainly have air superiority.

Asymmetric warfare

Canada's fighting force could escape further north, its small elite forces would likely disappear into the wilderness, seeking to fight another day.

Justification for War – Threat to US National Security

Because of it's open door policy, Canada's liberal immigration policy is a portal or doorway for those who would harm the US, like members of drug cartels or Taliban fighters

A senior trade adviser to President Trump said
“Canada has been taken over.”

Political Opposition to Annexation of Canada

If each of Canada's ten (10) provinces join as separate states, this would suddenly bring 20 new Senators, who come from a land with universal healthcare, gun control, and family-paid time off, and likely aligning with the Democratic Party.

The ten provinces of Canada are:

Alberta
British Columbia
Manitoba
New Brunswick
Newfoundland
Nova Scotia
Ontario
Prince Edward Island
Quebec
Saskatchewan

Canada's three territories are:

Northwest Territories
Nunavut
Yukon

Canada ranks among the world's top producers of 34 identified critical minerals. It boasts active mines, smelters, refineries, and a robust pipeline of advanced-stage across every province and territory

Canada is one of the few Western nations rich in cobalt, graphite, lithium, and nickel, crucial for future batteries and electric vehicles.

There is an Ecological Mandate to Stop Shale Oil Surface Mining

Danielle Smith, the premier of Alberta, who belongs to the United Conservative Party, said that she would hold a referendum on the province's separation next year. Many Albertans oppose the national Liberal government,

It's the leading producer of fossil fuels for the nation, accounting for 84% of total crude oil production and 61% of total natural gas production.

Alberta under Smith has challenged federal carbon tax, net-zero emissions timelines, and clean energy regulations.

Canada's constitution does not allow unilateral separation.

Only one province, however, has actually held referenda on separating from Canada: Quebec, in 1980 and 1995, both of which showed a majority of Québécois preferred to stay with Canada.

One Canadian Economy Act

Bill C-5 proposes sweeping new powers that would allow the federal government to fast-track major infrastructure projects

a single federal minister would be authorized to approve projects, override regulatory protections, and bypass environmental and social safeguards all without returning to Parliament for further approval

Curbing

Once the U.S. acquires territories, Article IV, Section 2 of the Constitution grants Congress the authority to manage them:

“The Congress shall have Power to dispose of and make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting Territory and other Property belonging to the United States.”

The NWMP, the Mounties, were created to check incursions by Americans into Canada, like the US Border Patrol, or ICE

It was feared that if Canada was unable to maintain law and order in the region the Americans would not leave, and the region would be annexed to the United States.

Ligue pour l'Action Socialiste

Socialism in Canada

- ♦ The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, or CCF was elected in 1944 in Saskatchewan under the leadership of Tommy Douglas.
- ♦ The CCF favored socialist policies, designed to increase government involvement in the economy and improve social programs.
- ♦ During the cold war the CCF faced a great deal of criticism and were occasionally denounced as communists.
- ♦ In 1961 Douglas resigned from the CCF to become the national leader of the newly organized New Democratic Party (NDP)
- ♦ Ultimately the CCF and the NDP under the leadership of Douglas, were responsible for the introduction of Medicare for Canada.
